Cod in the dough

Before preparing cod, I also encourage you to read the entire post first. In the content I give a lot of interesting advice on ingredients and their replacements.

✓ Step 1: Prepare the fish

About 600 g of sirloin or cod fillets cut into pieces of similar thickness to about 1.5 cm. If you have frozen fish, then first naturally thaw it in the refrigerator, then remove it, slightly squeeze it out of the water and bring it to room temperature. Sprinkle all the pieces of fish on both sides with salt and thyme and white or plain pepper. For the whole, I give 1 flat teaspoon of salt and thyme and half a teaspoon of freshly ground pepper. I put the pieces of fish so prepared aside or in the fridge, if I plan to make dinner a little later. As a last resort, you can prepare them in the evening, transfer to the dish under cover and keep in the refrigerator until the next day.

✓ Step 2: Make a pancake cake

Into a wider, deeper bowl pour 160 grams of wheat flour, cake or universal, as well as half a teaspoon of baking powder, a flat teaspoon of sweet pepper and a large pinch of turmeric. Also pour two small eggs, preferably those that do not exceed 50 grams after breaking, and also pour 150 ml of any milk with the temperature of the room or the same amount of sparkling water. Mix the whole very thoroughly on a thick dough.

Tip: Both milk and sparkling water can also be converted into beer.

✓ Step 3: Wrap the fish in the dough and fry

Start heating a large pan with a thick bottom, then pour half of the prepared oil on it. In the meantime, pieces of fish, generously wrap in a thick pancake dough, then line them into a pan with heated fat. They should fry in two turns.

Slices of fish in the dough fry on a lower than average burner power, after about 1-2 minutes on one side or so long or so long until the dough is slightly blushed and the fish in the middle fried.

Tip: To check if the fish is ready, just one piece cut. The soul should be white, not gray. If your pancake cake blushes too fast, then be sure to reduce the power of the burner.

✓ Step 4: Serve as you like

If necessary, fried pieces of cod in pancake dough can always be sprinkled with an additional portion of salt and pepper. I served my pieces of fish in the dough with sauerkraut salad, homemade fries and fried sugar peas. Be sure to squeeze lemon juice into the pieces of fish, already on the plate.

Tip: For those interested, the salad consists of sauerkraut, carrots, dill, oil, sugar, pepper and red pepper. As for the fries, it was a combination of ordinary young potatoes with sweet potatoes. I fried the peas on oil. Finally, I added salt and roasted sesame.

Enjoy.

Dziękuję za wspólne gotowanie.
